INTRODUCTION

Advance Care Planning (ACP) was defined as the ability to enable individuals to define goals and preferences for future medical treatment and care, to discuss these goals and preferences with families and healthcare providers, and to record and review these preferences if appropriate (Rietjens et al. 2017)

Despite widespread promotion and support by legislation in developed countries, to-date ACP is not legislated in Malaysia (Lim MK et al., 2022)

ATTITUDE TOWARDS ACP 2

INTENTION TOWARDS ACP 1

LIMITATION

The study uses a non-probability sampling strategy to recruit respondents via an online survey. Hence, the study only represents Malaysians answering this survey.

CONCLUSION

ACP could be focused on early adopters while taking into consideration individual preferences and training of healthcare providers to ensure successful nationwide implementation of ACP to the Malaysian health system.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We would like to express our gratitude to the Director-General of Health Malaysia and Deputy Director-General of Health Malaysia (Research & Technical Support) for the permission to present this poster.
